Dealing with coaches/players on various levels

Mechanics

Out/Strike (3 levels)

Non-Verbal – Everyone knows the call, you just confirm

Verbal/Signal – Your judgement (used 75% of the time)

Sell – Loudly verbally call/sell (in the field, briefly pause, quick “mind replay”, then SELL)

Safe (3 levels) – same as Out/Strike.

Plate Mechanics

What is the Strike Zone? (Strike zones for different levels of play, (Over home plate, between the batter’s sternum to the knees when the batter assumes a natural stance). Be methodical (Same repetitive movements).

Slot Position (Get in the Slot—best view) Stance—The key is to have a “locked” position.

Head Height. Align on the plate. Athletic Stance (Back Straight, Hand Position, Etc.)

Ball Tracking Follow with your eyes, not your head—Make the call after the ball hits the glove, then call.

Strike (When to use the verbal “strike”, when to just signal, and how to sell the strike and how often to sell)

The Count—Give every other pitch. The higher the level, the less you need to give the count. Stop Signal. Play Ball Signal. Dead Ball/Foul Ball. Close plays and plate positioning.

Infield Fly Signal (On/Off) Illegal/Legal pitches

Base Mechanics

A, B, C

Move to improve (Angle over Distance. Go for the angle over getting closer to the play) Stop moving while making the call. A—Inside/Out (Fly ball coverage) B/C—Allow players to get to their spots 1st, then get to yours (Talk with players) Safe on pulled foot (Signal Safe, then signal “Side Swipe”)

Umpire Etiquette

Professionalism, Communication, Punctuality -30 Minutes is preferred and standard protocol.

Never disagree publicly with your partner (you are the only 2 people on YOUR team! Stick Together)
Pre-Game Discussion with Partners.

Responsibilities (3rd base, fair/foul, fly balls)

Communication/Signals: Special plays you’ve seen. Pick something you want to get better at each game. Verbally communicate/point during plays. How to get count from your partner (Base Ump). How to get help on a check swing (Base Ump, DO NOT offer help until asked) if umpires need help or disagree, call a conference—give all available information. (What you see, not think you saw), let the umpire who made the call, change the call. Otherwise, the call stands and the umpires stand together with the call!!

Our main goal is to give the tools to the campers, so they may become a better umpire, on and off the field.
